The Andrus Center Conference on Women and Leadership is an opportunity to hear from successful women in the worlds of business, public service, armed forces, natural resource management, aviation, academia, gender studies, science, technology, the arts, and more. Through keynote addresses, panel discussions, networking, and skill building sessions, the Andrus Center Conference on Women and Leadership is designed to educate, motivate, and inspire both women and men.

Female pioneers, leaders in their field, trendsetters and titans. The Andrus Center Conference on Women and Leadership is an opportunity to hear from successful women in the worlds of business, public service, armed forces, natural resource management, aviation, academia, gender studies, science, technology, the arts, and more. Through keynote addresses, panel discussions, networking, and skill building sessions, the Andrus Center Conference on Women and Leadership is designed to educate, motivate, and inspire both women and men.

$195 Registration Includes:
- Eight Keynote Speakers
- Two Skill Builders
- Two Panels (Nonprofit & STEM)
- Two Networking Events
- Two Breakfasts & Lunches
- Two Receptions
- Unlimited Inspiration!

“The Andrus Center Conference on Women and Leadership is a high quality conference at an amazing value! The 2014 speaker lineup was impressive and the content was inspiring. My team left motivated to achieve their professional and personal ambitions. We were so impressed with the conference that we will be doubling our attendance numbers and contributing as sponsors in 2015.”

- Karen Metz, Sr. Director - Business Planning and Process Management, Micron Technology

“The inspiring messages of high caliber speakers are as relevant to men as they are to women. The content is not “how to succeed as a woman,” but “how to succeed,” being presented by a woman. I encourage anyone interested in building leadership skills to make this conference a priority!”

- Randy Hill, Senior Vice President - Energy, Infrastructure & Industrial Construction, AECOM

For more information or to register contact the Andrus Center: 208.426.3784 | andruscenter.org