On a scale of 1 to 10, how likely are you now to participate in the political process?

- Not likely
- Likely

I learned that people from all backgrounds can run for office and should.

I am not scared or hesitant to run for public office anymore.

I learned that legislators can work with each other even if they are from different parties. I also learned that we need more women in politics.

I feel empowered to make connections within my community and become involved in the process because I know I have the qualifications to do so!

I feel honored to have had this experience with future leaders and am excited to see what we accomplish in the future.

What was the most significant thing you learned from NEW?

I am not alone in a lot of challenges I have faced and will face later in my life – other women are there to support me.

My opinions matter.

Although party politics create significant differences between individuals, individuals have the power to unite in ways that break down those party biases.

How to accept people that are different from me and have different beliefs.

We all have the power to make change, whether on the front line or behind the scenes.

Did NEW meet your expectations?

I attended because I wanted more information on politics and how I could understand the process better...and that is exactly what I got!

NEW completely exceeded my expectations.

It really exceeded my expectations. I’d heard it was good but didn’t think it could have such an impact on me.

I learned a lot about how to be involved in the community and politics. I thought the experience was great!

It blew them out of the water!

It exceeded them by providing a well-balanced, well-rounded approach to women in leadership.
